ENTIRE REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET IS SUCCESSFUL IN FAYETTE; SUFFRAGE BEATEN IN STATE BY 60,000; G. O. P. MAKES BIG GAINS

SUFFRAGE BEATEN IN THREE STATES; REPUBLICANS WIN

Gain Strength in Congress and Elect Governor of Massachusetts.

OHIO DEFEATS PROHIBITION

New State Constitution is Rejected in New York; Close Vote for Governor in Kentucky; Republican Gain in New Jersey; Other Results.

Elections in 10 states yesterday emphatically defeated Woman Suffrage amendments in New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, and gave the Republicans an additional representative in Congress and a new governor in Massachusetts.

In Kentucky both parties claim victory in the gubernatorial contest but incomplete returns from 11 of the 120 counties gave former Congressman Augustus O. Stanley, Democrat, a lead of 9,029 over Edwin P. Morrow, his Republican opponent.

Mississippi, the only other state to elect a governor, went as usual Democratic. The only opposition to the Democratic ticket was made by the Socialists.

In New York, former Congressman William S. Bennett, was elected in the 22nd district to succeed the late Democratic Congressman Jacob Goldfogle. Bennett is a Republican.

Republicans will succeed Republicans in the 31st and 36th congressional districts of New York and the 24th of Pennsylvania.

In New York the Republicans retained control of the lower house of the legislature although they lost one assemblyman. They also elected a majority of the mayors in cities of the state.

In addition to defeating the suffrage amendment by about 240,000 the people of New York repudiated the new state constitution drafted by a convention of which Elihu Root was president and for which Mr. Root had conducted a vigorous speaking campaign.

Samuel W. McCall, the Republican who will succeed David L. Walsh, a Democrat, as governor of Massachusetts, won by a plurality of 6,067. The Republicans retained control of the Massachusetts legislature.

In New Jersey, the Republicans gained two state senators and two members of the assembly and will continue in control of both houses of the legislature.

Prohibition was rejected in Ohio by a majority of from 20,000 to 30,000. The Republicans elected mayors in Cleveland and Cincinnati. Charles Milroy, a Progressive, was chosen mayor of Toledo. The city of Toledo voted against a 25 year street car franchise and will take over all lines controlled by the Toledo Railways & Light Company.

A proposal that the city purchase the local street railways was rejected in Detroit.

The election of members of the Virginia general assembly will send a heavy majority to the senate and house pledged to the enactment of Prohibition legislation when the state goes dry by constitutional amendment November 1, 1916.

SHIP AGROUND; 18 LOST

Passenger Steamer Founders Off the Oregon Coast.

By Associated Press.

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Nov. 3.—Eighteen persons are believed to have lost their lives late yesterday when the passenger steamer Santa Clara, from Portland to San Francisco, went aground on the south spit near the entrance to Coos Bay, late yesterday. Eleven bodies have been recovered and seven other persons are missing.

According to Mate Tessell, the shoal upon which the vessel first struck was uncharted, apparently having recently been formed. After striking the spit lifeboats immediately were lowered. Two boats overturned in the surf. One contained mostly passengers, while the other carried the captain and most of the crew. Most of those in the latter boat swam ashore.

There were 18 passengers aboard and the crew numbered 42. Of those who reached shore many were still in a condition of exhaustion today. Vehicles were dispatched from here to bring as many to Marshfield as are able to travel.

Latest reports said a heavy sea was pounding the Santa Clara today and that she probably would be a total loss.

Banker Dies at 100.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3.—William Wallace Spence, the Baltimore financier who celebrated his 100th birthday on October 12 last, died at his home here today.

Names District Judge.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—President Wilson today appointed Tillman D. Johnson of Ogden, Utah, United States district judge for Utah.

NORTON CARRIES CITY FOR TREASURER; HIGBEE TRAILS

Republicans Make a Sweep of All Other Offices; Big Vote is Polled for Reppert.

Connellsville was safely Republican. There was only one break in the ticket, the city giving Eugene T. Norton, for county treasurer, a lead over George Orval Rush, his Republican opponent. This was the only crack in the ticket. All of the other Republican candidates went through with flying colors. E. C. Higbee, Democratic candidate for district attorney, ran little better than the rest of the ticket. As a matter of fact, his vote was topped by that of Ewing Swaney, for sheriff, and George P. Hoover, for commissioner, Connellsville's three candidates on the Republican ticket went through with flying colors. Logan Rush received 1,057 votes for commissioner, H. C. Hays was given 1,059 votes for recorder of deeds, while J. Howard Henderson was given 1,050 for county surveyor.

All of the wards went Republican, the only one to break away to any serious extent being the Fifth, On the South Side, George P. Hoover, for commissioner, E. C. Higbee, for district attorney, C. H. LaClair for coroner and E. T. Norton for treasurer were the Democrats who led their Republican opponents. This was Higbee's home ward.

Judge E. H. Reppert received 1,197 votes in the city. There were only a handful of scattering votes for H. L. Robinson, a total of eight in the city. For superior court judge, Head, Orlandy and Williams were the leaders, the former two getting the bulk of the vote.

TOWNSHIP RETURNS

Republicans Win in Bullskin; Democrats Sweep Dunbar Precincts.

Bullskin township No. 1 election board was still counting ballots at noon today. The board had considerably over 300 tickets and their task was a big one. Early returns from the two districts indicated the election of F. L. Freed, John Trusel and Austin Rhodes, Republicans, to the school board and George Welsel as supervisor.

Dunbar township returns showed that William Roland, the present constable, had been defeated by Frank McLaughlin, 572 to 389.

For school director the returns showed Donovan 139, Edwards 319; Chipperux 367; Reagan 247; for supervisor the result was 387; Jacobs 448. All the successful nominees are Democrats.

Carnegie Reported Ill.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—It was reported that Andrew Carnegie, the iron master, who returned to New York from Bar Harbor October 14 last, is ill at his home. While he is not suffering with any physical ailment that causes immediate alarm, his general condition is such, it was said, he has not been able for some days to give any attention to his business affairs or meet any social obligations. Mr. Carnegie will be 80 years old November 25.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE IS BEATEN; OTHER AMENDMENTS APPROVED

West Side Throws Heavy Vote Against Votes for Women; It Carries Three Wards.

Woman Suffrage was beaten in Connellsville, 667 to 738. The Third, Fourth and Fifth wards gave Votes for Women a majority, while it lost in the First, Second, Sixth and Seventh. The vote on the West Side was particularly strong against the amendment. All of the other amendments carried by a good margin. The vote on No. 2, which only affects Philadelphia, was 543 in favor to 395 against. The Workman's Compensation amendment was carried, 700 to 312, while the one affecting the registration of land titles was approved, 607 to 305.

The women workers, while disappointed that suffrage was defeated here, are encouraged over the support given the amendment. They are also particularly well pleased with the treatment accorded them at the polls.

Mrs. Anna Day Schoonover, city chairman of the suffrage organization, said today that in every ward the women workers were accorded every courtesy. They entered the election places, she said, only at the invitation of the election board. Every election officer extended a hearty welcome to the women. The only unpleasantness of the day was caused by a constable in the First ward whose conduct, Mrs. Schoonover said, was in striking contrast to that received everywhere else.

Mrs. Schoonover took occasion to deny that any questions were asked her about the camera she carried, or that she had been requested not to pass literature within the voting places. The women, she said, were well informed as to the law, and did not need to be warned.

BOYS THROW STONES.

South Side Lads Warned by Chief to Behave Themselves.

Chief of Police W. F. Bowers went to the South Side today and warned several boys about 13 and 14 years old against whom complaints of stone throwing have been made, that the practise must be stopped at once and threatened them with arrest.

Chief Bowers has seven names of boys who are alleged to be in the gang. Almost every day in the vicinity of Sycamore street the boys have stone battles, dividing into sides and throwing at each other. The complaints were made by neighbors, who gave the names to the police.

VILLA IN RETREAT.

Forced by Hunger and Scant Ammunition to Fall Back.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Nov. 3.—General Villa, forced by hunger, thirst and scant ammunition to abandon his plan for an immediate assault on the village of Agua Prieta, commenced withdrawing his army and shortly after 9 o'clock most of his force was moving toward Ameeht Pass, 12 miles southwest.

A Calles reconnoitering party of 40 or 50 men ran into a Villa machine gun and were cut to pieces this morning, according to American observers. Only five returned to camp.

DEMOCRATS BADLY BEATEN IN FAYETTE COUNTY BALLOTING

Entire Republican Ticket Will Have Handsome Margin of Votes.

HOOVER LEADS M'CLELLAND

Returns Indicate He Will be the Minority Commissioner; Big Vote is Given Logan Rush, Connellsville's Candidate on the Good Roads Issue.

The Democratic county ticket was badly beaten at the polls in Fayette yesterday. All the consolation they will get out of the campaign will be a minority seat on the board of county commissioners. Indications are that George P. Hoover will relieve Edwin H. McClelland of that duty, as the latter is running behind from the returns available. The rest of the Democrats were snowed under.

Although the returns came in but slowly this morning, indications at noon were that Thomas L. Howard, Republican candidate for sheriff, would lead the ticket. He may have 3,000 votes to the good. Logan Rush will probably lead the ticket for county commissioner. He received an overwhelming vote in the Youngh region, and ran correspondingly strong elsewhere in the county. Charles H. Nutt, his running mate, was only a few votes behind him in the early returns.

There is not the semblance of a contest for any office. Dr. S. H. Baum, for county coroner, the lowest man on the Republican ticket, will have from 1,200 to 1,500 over Dr. C. H. LaClair, his opponent. Dick Davis for clerk of courts; H. C. Hays, for recorder of deeds; D. E. Davison, for poor director; S. John Morrow, for district attorney; Henry R. Titterington, for register of wills; Harry Klainger, for controller; George Orval Rush, for treasurer, and J. H. Henderson, for surveyor, all have safe majorities.

Eugene T. Norton of Connellsville made a hard race for treasurer, as did Ewing B. Swaney for sheriff, but they were unable to overcome the big Republican vote cast against them. E. C. Higbee, also of Connellsville, ran little better than he did 10 years ago for the same office.

Early returns indicated the defeat of woman suffrage in the county, although the vote will probably be close. It is believed the other amendments have carried.

Judge E. H. Reppert polled a tremendous vote. His name appeared alone on the ballot and there was virtually no scratching. Here and there a few scattering votes for H. L. Robinson were recorded, but the total will be small.

Figures available at 2 P. M. today showed the following results from 77 districts:

COUNTY COMMISSIONER.

Hoover	5,421
McClelland	4,467
Nutt	5,875
Rush	5,803

SHERIFF.

Swaney	4,591

SOCIALISTS BADLY BEATEN IN SOUTH CONNELLSVILLE

Republicans Elect All of the Borough Officers; There by Large Majorities.

The Socialists were badly beaten by the Republicans in South Connellsville, a district which four years ago polled 166 straight Socialist tickets, has gradually returned to the Republican fold, there being but a few dozen Democratic voters in the town. The Republicans elected the burgess, high constable, constable, two school directors, five councilmen and an auditor.

William Sisley was elected burgess, polling 167 votes to 97 for John Wilder, his Socialist opponent, and 33 for Harry E. Adams, a Democrat.

Norval Morgan, Republican, was elected high constable, polling 189 votes against 81 for Charles Durbin, his Democratic opponent. For constable John Jaynes, Republican, received 185 votes and W. S. Ringer, Republican, 84.

W. H. Bruce polled 163 votes and W. T. Aldrick 164 for school director. Both are Republicans. H. J. Debolt, Democrat, received 95; D. T. Ferguson, Socialist, 65; W. T. Wagner, Socialist, 70; and Omer Trump, Independent, 1.

For the four year term in council Burnet Burkhart polled 171; G. G. Langford, 193; R. S. Pieres, 149; and Sherman Weaver 158. All four are Republicans. On the Socialist ticket John S. Craft polled 56; James L. Edenbo, 69; D. H. Hall, 57, and James Reynolds 71. The Democrats finished a poor third as follows: Eber Addis, 50; P. J. Flynn, 41; James E. Schell, 45; R. W. Whipkey, 58. Mr. Flynn withdrew before election time and made no active campaign.

For the two year term, William Trevitt, Republican, polled 155; Samuel Lee, Socialist, 62; and Joseph Crystal, Democrat, 15.

For auditor Roy Trenberth, Republican, was elected with 172 votes. James E. Creedon, Democrat, polled 15 and Jonas Welshone, Socialist, 44.

South Connellsville also gave the county Republican ticket good majorities. Woman Suffrage was defeated, 115 to 107.

M'CONNELL WINS

Leads for Judge in Hot Westmoreland County Fight.

They had a hot fight over in Westmoreland county. Judge A. D. McConnell is leading George B. Shaw by 1,700 votes, with a number of districts to be heard from, but it is conceded that McConnell's lead is safe. Shaw was supported by the temperance element.

The race for county commissioner has developed into a neck and neck pull between W. Dick Reamer and Herman Hamel, the latter a Democrat. The election of Berkey H. Boyd, Republican; and George W. Deeds, Democrat, is assured. On the outcome of the Reamer-Hamel fight depends whether the Democrats or Republicans will control the board.

Former Sheriff John E. Shields has been defeated for that office by John P. Kilgore, a Democrat. Kilgore's lead of 2,100 in 156 of the 187 districts was regarded safe.

The vote for suffrage is admitted close. Both sides are claiming the county.

TAFT IS HAPPY.

Greatly Pleased Over Republican Victory in Massachusetts.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 3.—Former President William Howard Taft in a statement given out today commenting on yesterday's election said he was very much pleased at the election of former Congressman Samuel W. McCall as governor of Massachusetts, which he regards as significant of Republican victory in 1916.

He said he was disappointed at the defeat of the proposed new constitution in New York.

Go to Bedford.

A. D. Solsson, J. M. Grey, George Marietta and William McCormick left this morning by automobile for Bedford county to hunt for wild turkey.

SUFFRAGE BEATEN IN STATE BY 60,000; PHILA. REPUBLICAN

Thomas B. Smith is Elected Mayor by Wide Margin Over Reform Candidate.

By Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—Although the constitutional amendment which would have granted the women of Pennsylvania the vote was defeated at yesterday's election, the vote against it was not nearly so large as was indicated in last night's meagre returns. Indications early today were that the plurality against it would be reduced to between 50,000 or 60,000. A number of counties outside of Philadelphia returned majorities for the amendment, while late returns from others were reduced.

In Philadelphia where it was first estimated that Suffrage had lost by a very large majority this was reduced to 38,377. Eight hundred sixty-seven districts out of 5,632 in the state outside of Philadelphia showed that 41,400 votes had been cast for the amendment and 45,933 against. In Philadelphia Suffrage polled 86,596 votes while 105,873 ballots were cast against.

The complete vote for mayor in Philadelphia was as follows: Thomas B. Smith, Republican, 159,653; George D. Porter, Independent, 84,821; B. Gordon Bromley, Democrat, 5,821.

Suffragists refused to accept yesterday's result as a defeat and planned to celebrate their "Victory" by holding a big jubilee meeting here today.

With about 50 per cent of the state heard from on the woman suffrage amendment up to 1 P. M., the returns show a majority against the amendment of 49,385. This includes Philadelphia's majority of 39,277 against. The vote at this time was for suffrage, 144,239; against, 190,624.

About 25 of the 67 counties in the state were carried by the suffragists by small majorities.

SHAW CARRIES SCOTTDALE

Mill Town Is Also Strong for Woman Suffrage.

In Scottdale the main interest of the election yesterday centered about the judicial campaign for common pleas judge between Alexander D. McConnell, the present jurge, and George B. Shaw. In the four wards the vote was:

McConnell	143	88	133	101	471
Shaw	178	177	128	63	546

For the Suffrage amendment the vote was as follows:

Yes	182	154	134	60	530
No	93	57	86	59	295

James L. Reynolds, Republican, a present school director, and James K. Campbell, chief chemist of the Frick Coke Company, were elected school directors by a vote of 500 and 534 respectively over H. L. Bell and R. M. Young, Democratic candidates, who received 353 and 321 votes respectively.

B. H. Boyd, the home candidate for county commissioner, had a big lead, 678 votes. George Deeds, Democrat, received 407 votes; Herman Hamel, his running mate, 391 votes, and W. Dick Reamer, Boyd's running mate, 357 votes.

KIEFER IS BEATEN

George M. Bailey Elected First Mayor of Uniontown.

The only real surprise of the election was the defeat of Mart A. Kiefer for mayor of Uniontown. As late as yesterday supporters of the sheriff were offering odds of 2 to 1 that he would win, but the returns gave George M. Bailey 1,204 votes to 1,085 for Kiefer. Harry D. Leonard was elected controller of Uniontown over Miles E. Pritts.

The successful councilmanic candidates were George W. Hibbs, J. Arthur Strickler, H. D. Hutchinson and Robert Hogsett. Hogsett was opposed by the organization, but defeated George Whyel.

Sunday Movies Upheld.

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., Nov. 3. A proposal to close moving picture theatres on Sunday was defeated by a decisive majority in the election yesterday.

COUNCIL SLATE IS ELECTED; STICKER VOTE VERY LIGHT

Fifth Ward; However, Returns Majority for Gans, Wright and Hooper.

REPUBLICANS ON SCHOOL BOARD

Haines, Wood and Ralston the New Members; Whiteley an Easy Winner for Controller; City Votes for Water Works; Garbage Loses.

The slated councilmen, John Duggan, L. L. West, M. B. Pryce and James H. Guynn, ran true to form in the city election yesterday. Without opposition on the ticket, their election was a foregone conclusion. The sticker campaign which was launched at the eleventh hour, and was as quickly punctured by the refusal of the three incumbents in council to be considered as candidates, failed to make an impression, but in the Fifth ward the protest against the selection of the slated four was so great that Gans, Hooper and Wright carried the ward. They failed, however, to make a serious impression in the Fourth, receiving approximately the number of votes credited for them in the primary returns which, it had been charged, were not counted properly.

Councilman-elect L. L. West ran far ahead of the others on the ticket. This was largely in recognition of his long service as an assessor in the Fourth ward, which he held with distinct personal credit. West led the ticket in every ward, even polling more votes than John Duggan in the latter's home territory, the West Side. M. B. Pryce ran third and James H. Guynn fourth. Guynn is not particularly well known in the city and was carried along with the rest of the ticket.

There was little interest in the race for city controller. J. Clyde Whiteley was an easy winner over V. H. Solsson by a vote of 837 to 497.

The new school board will continue Republican. Not a Democrat slipped through. George L. Armstrong made a hard race against J. W. Ralston for the two-year term, but was nosed out by five votes. The victory of Ralston was a rebuke to those who attempted to inject religious prejudice into the campaign. Mr. Ralston is regarded as the most able of the candidates for school director on any of the tickets. He is a business man of wide experience and will bring to the board an experience that should prove of value to the community. Walter W. Haines, a Baltimore & Ohio train dispatcher, and Omer Wood, a West Penn dispatcher, were winners for the six year term under the Democratic opponents, Charles A. Crowley and John A. Keslar.

HARD WORK COUNTING

Election Boards Work Until Dawn Compiling Votes.

Computation of election returns was a tedious job and some of the election officers declared that it was "never again" for them. The Third ward board finished up at 7 o'clock this morning after 24 hours of continuous work. They had close to 350 ballots to count. This may have accounted for the posting of the returns upside down outside of the polling place.

The Second ward board quit work at 5 o'clock this morning and several members of the board who did most of the clerical work were just about "all in." In this ward 219 ballots were counted.

The Fifth ward and the smaller ones across the river did not have such a hard task, and were through earlier. The Fourth ward finished up at 4 o'clock. South Connellsville's board was not through until nearly 7 o'clock.

In No 5 district at Leisenring, the board was still at the polls at 7.15 o'clock this morning, though there was only a small vote cast.

Watchers took exceptions to rulings in the Third ward in the sticker votes. Some of the electors pasted their stickers over the names of the candidates on the ballot and in marking X's after the sticker candidates put them on the ballot opposite the names of the nominees. These, it is said, were counted for the nominated candidates, notwithstanding vigorous objections.

Return to Connellsville.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Glotfelty arrived here yesterday from Detroit, Mich., to take up their residence. The trip was made in their automobile. Mr. and Mrs. Glotfelty are former well known residents of Connellsville. For the past two years they were located in Detroit.

Lots of Rabbits.

Amzi Struble, J. E. Struble and son William, have returned from a two days hunting trip in Mount Pleasant township. They bagged 37 rabbits and two pheasants. While there they were the guests of W. W. Struble.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Rev. L. B. Rittenhouse of Indiana, Pa., a conference evangelist, preached last night in the South Connellsville Evangelical church. There were three converts. The meetings are attracting large crowds, and will continue for an indefinite period.

Mrs. John Butler of Percy entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Protestant church at Percy, at a chicken dinner. Rev. W. H. Gladden, was an out of town guest.

The regular meeting of the C. W. B. M. Auxiliary of the Christian church will be held tomorrow afternoon in the church instead of this afternoon.

The King's Daughters of the Trinity Lutheran church will hold a special meeting tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. P. K. Artman in Vine street.

The C. L. Girls Club was delightfully entertained last evening by Miss Mae Mosley at her home in Baldwin avenue. The evening was spent at fancy work, followed by dainty refreshments. Mrs. R. J. McCoy will entertain the Club Tuesday evening November 16 at her home at Dunbar.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the United Brethren Church will hold an oyster supper tomorrow evening in the church. The hours are from 5 to 8 o'clock. The ladies are making extensive arrangements for the supper and all who attend will be generously served.

Miss Anna Tippman, whose marriage to William Logan, will be an event of next week was tendered a surprise miscellaneous shower last evening at her home in South Pittsburg street. The shower was arranged by several of her friends, and about twenty guests attended. Miss Tippman received cut glass, linens, china and other useful articles. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Henry Rhodes was hostess at the regular meeting of the Greenwood Ladies' Fancy Work Club yesterday afternoon at her home in Morrell avenue, Greenwood. All members but two, and seven guests attended. The meeting was one of the largest as well as the most enjoyable held for some time. The ladies brought their fancy work and spent a very pleasant afternoon. A delightful program including a reading by Mrs. L. S. Michael, and a piano solo by Edgie Grimm and Marguerite Rhodes, the latter a daughter of the hostess, was rendered. A well appointed luncheon was served. The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. B. Piersol on the corner of Morrell avenue, and Ninth street, Greenwood.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Trinity Reformed church will meet tomorrow evening at the parsonage in East Green street.

A meeting of the Baraca Class of the First Baptist Church will be held this evening in the basement of the church to discuss plans for an oyster supper to be given in the dining room of the church, Friday evening, November 12. A. B. Boyer has offered to buy an admission ticket to the supper for any member of the class.

YES—IT IS POSSIBLE TO STOP RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is a tormenting and stubborn malady. In some cases it yields to treatment which is without avail in other cases.

The darting pains, lame muscles or stiffened joints only disappear by gradually expelling the uric acid, and so many thousands have been relieved by the blood-enriching oil-food in Scott's Emulsion that you should give it a faithful trial. Scott's Emulsion acts as a powerful blood-purifier by increasing the red corpuscles and it strengthens the organs to carry off the acids which cause the trouble.

Try Scott's Emulsion. It cannot harm. It has helped thousands and may be exactly what you need. No Alcohol.

REPUBLICANS WIN

They Carry Ohiopyle for the Whole Ticket.

The Republicans in the Ohiopyle borough carried everything there, and by a good margin. All the borough officials of Ohiopyle on the Republican ballot were elected. One Democrat was elected justice of the peace, as it was necessary to vote for two, and but one Republican was nominated.

The woman suffrage amendment went half and half in the Ohiopyle borough, there being 21 for and 21 against it. Logan Rush and Charles Nutt carried the borough for county commissioner. S. John Morrow ran ahead of E. C. Higbee for district attorney.

All the amendments carried with the exception of woman suffrage. On the non-partisan ticket, Benedict Head had 27 for judge of the superior court, Hasselton 11, Orlady 31, Palmer 15, Wallace 12, Williams 15. For judge of the common pleas, Edmund H. Reppert got 43.

In the commissioner race, Logan Rush of Connellsville led with 45, Nutt had 41, Hoover 28, McClelland 21, Ewing Swaney was defeated for sheriff by Thomas L. Howard, the former getting 24, and Howard running 55. Reuben Howard for clerk of courts ran 32 on the Democratic ticket but was beaten out by Davis on the Republican ticket, who led with 41.

For prothonotary, Rathmell led with 45, and Hiliss had 22. For poor director, Davison led with 19 and Rhoads, his opponent polled 22. S. John Morrow ran strong, polling 52 votes for district attorney, and E. C. Higbee ran 25. Beam was the favorite for coroner, his vote being 42 and that of LeClair 27. Titterington polled 47 for register of wills and Hibbs polled 23.

H. C. Hays got 45 for recorder of deeds, and Arison 24. Kisinger almost doubled on Graft, he getting 16 to the Democrat's 24. Orval Rush ran strong for county treasurer, getting 50, while E. T. Norton of Connellsville, polled 23. Henderson, the Republican candidate, ran 45 for surveyor and Crowford 28.

The vote for borough offices was as follows:

For justice of the peace, I. F. Woodmancy, Democrat, 45; Radcliffe Weir, Republican, 54. School director, for six years, C. G. Blair, Democrat, 29; J. D. Wolfe, Democrat, 31; Fred Burdette, Republican, 17; W. G. Corristan, Republican, 41; for four years, William Holt, Democrat, 20; Dalton Potter, Republican, 55.

For council, John Holt, Democrat, 29; R. C. Holt, Democrat, 23; George P. Mitchell, Democrat, 22; A. A. Corristan, Republican, 55; T. M. Mitchell, 52; John Stewart, Republican, 51.

For constable, John Tressler, Democrat, 24; George P. Jackson, Republican, 15. For auditor, Thomas Glotfelty, Democrat, 30; Frank Welch, Democrat, 21; Harvey Corristan, Republican 48; I. W. Shaw, Republican, 47.

FRENCH TROOPS REPORTED TO HAVE LANDED IN GREECE

Plan is to Connect With Troops Already Aligned Against Bulgarians in Serbia.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The landing of French troops at Kavala on the Greek coast is reported in a Sofia telegram to Berlin and although this is unconfirmed it seemed a likely sequel to yesterday's information that British and French transports had been sighted off this port. Whether these forces will be able to connect speedily enough with the other troops aligned against the Bulgarians from Krivolak to Strumitsa to relieve the pressure there and by a possible flank attack threaten the rear of the Bulgarian forces, is admittedly problematical, but their appearance in the Balkans is regarded in London as a gratifying materialization of Premier Asquith's positive announcement yesterday that the independence of Serbia was one of the essential objects of the war and that Great Britain and France were in full agreement whereby this end may be attained.

With the reception of this reported landing of troops, the Balkan situation today presented little besides a tangled conflict of rumors including one that Monastir is already in Bulgarian hands and that the Serbians are almost surrounded by the Austrians, Germans and Bulgarians and are hastily retreating to their last position in the Albanian mountains. These rumors, however, are discredited here or at least are regarded as premature, since the official communications from Berlin, Vienna and Sofia record no such developments.

The Austro-German forces in northern and eastern Serbia, and the Bulgarians in the east continue their attack against which the defense gradually yields ground but the situation is not vitally changed. The size of the German army in this region is about 150,000 men, according to an authoritative statement reaching London. Thus far the number of prisoners captured by this force is surprisingly small. The Austrians have officially admitted they have been able to capture only 20 Serbian officers and 6,600 men. The paucity of officers is taken to suggest that there must be many civilians among the 6,000 odd prisoners.

PEACE IMPOSSIBLE NOW, SAYS FRENCH PREMIER

PARIS, Nov. 3.—France will not sign a peace agreement until after her restoration by right of victory and until she shall obtain all guarantees of a durable peace, said Premier Briand today. This statement was included in the ministerial declaration of the new cabinet, which was read before the Chamber of Deputies and Senate.

"We are at war," said the Premier. "The hour is for action. Towards action all the efforts of the government must be directed. The essential task of the government is the utilization of all the vital forces of the nation with a view to war and to combine and associate with this object all public services."

Wives and Mothers.

Have you ever stopped to realize how much the health of your family depends upon you? For instance, diet is a great factor in health, and you are responsible for it, then again when any member of your family gets into a run-down condition, when the children are delicate, cross and ailing, when somebody takes cold and develops a cough, they look to you for help. Do you know that our local druggists, The Laughrey Drug Company, have a non-secret constitutional remedy known as Vinol which they guarantee for just such conditions. ITCHING ECZEMA COVERED ENTIRE BODY, RESINOL CURED

Could Not Sleep. 8 Remedies had Failed. Resinol Stopped Itching Immediately.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 11, 1914.—"My entire body, even my eyelids, was completely covered with blisters as large as a pea. When one would burst water would come from it, and then it would turn into a very painful sore. The burning and itching were something terrible, and I COULD NOT SLEEP nor rest. I think I had one of the worst cases of eczema a human being ever had.

"I used eight different kinds of remedies without success. I then tried Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap and it stopped the itching IMMEDIATELY. I gradually noticed a change for the better. Now I am entirely cured, and am without a pimple or blemish on any part of my body."—(Signed) Edward F. McCullough, 240 River St., Mattapan. The Grim Reaper

MRS. CHRISTINA WATSON.

Funeral services for Mrs. Christina Watson were held last evening at 8 o'clock from the residence of a son-in-law, John Evans on Gallatin avenue, Rev. W. J. Everhart, pastor of the United Presbyterian Church, officiated. The services were impressive and were attended by many friends and relatives of the deceased. There were a number of handsome floral tributes. This morning Funeral Director C. C. Mitchell shipped the body on Baltimore & Ohio train No. 3 to Hackett, Pa., for interment. The following persons in addition to the members of the family, attended the services at Hackett: Mrs. E. N. Stahl, Mrs. Joseph Fleckenstein and daughter, Miss Josephine, Mrs. S. M. May, Mrs. Joseph Alt, of Connellsville; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Watson of Toledo, O.; Mr. and Mrs. John White, William Johnson and Mrs. M. Johnson of Pittsburg.

ARE YOU PROUD OF YOUR PIMPLES?

Or Would You Get Rid of Them If You Could?

You can do away with pimples quickly and for good by using Ucanol night and morning. Before you try it, bear in mind that if it does not do the work, you can go to the drug store where you bought it and get your money back and no questions asked. Ucanol never costs more than 50 cents at any good drug store for a liberal sized package, and you can always get it in this city from A. A. Clarke.

There is absolutely no occasion nor excuse for anyone who has ever heard of Ucanol to go around with a face full of disgusting and disfiguring pimples. So many persons who have had pimples for years and who have used Ucanol with unvarying success are now sounding its praises in every direction, it is not at all unusual that there is such a wide demand for it everywhere today. Probably no other preparation for similar uses has met with equal success in such a short time after its discovery and introduction. If you don't happen to be afflicted with pimples you will do some friend who is afflicted a big favor by telling him or her about Ucanol and what it actually does—Adv.

RELATIVES ARE LIVING

A. Frank Receives Good News From Poland.

After five months of silence which led him to believe that his relatives in Poland had been killed in the war, A. Frank of East Fairview avenue has received the glad tidings that all are safe and happy under German government. Two of his nephews had been drafted for service in the Russian army. They were to leave for their home in Suwalki province on a Tuesday and on Monday night the Germans took the town. The drafted soldiers were freed of obligation to serve in the Russian army.

Word to this effect was received by Mr. Frank's brother, Samuel Frank of Pittsburg. The epistle was on the way six weeks and it was the first relatives here had received for five months. Mr. Franks heard the glad news on a visit to his brother in Pittsburg last Sunday. His people are much pleased at the change in government and are glad to undertake to learn the German language.

Mr. Frank's sister, Mrs. Annie Poetar had eight children, four of whom are located in Chicago and four in Poland. Two of the latter are men and when Poland was threatened with invasion by Germany they were required to fight for Russia. The Poetars, however, escaped active service until the Germans reached Suwalki.

52 AT NIGHT SCHOOL

Preliminary Meeting Brings Out Many Prospective Students.

Fifty-two students enrolled at the first session of night school last night. They all signed the petition requesting the establishment of the school. Many more who understood that last night's meeting was first a preliminary conference will attend, it was stated last night.

Active work will start Thursday night at 7.30 o'clock in the high school building. School will be held on Monday and Thursday night of each week. The instructors will likely be Miss Irene Crawford, commercial teacher in high school; W. H. Seawright, assistant-principal of the high school, and J. W. Black, principal of the Fourth ward schools. The number of teachers will be regulated by the needs of the students. It is anticipated that many of them will take commercial work as this department was well attended last year.

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! If Tongue is Coated Give "California "Syrup of Figs.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomachache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."—Adv.

A False Statement Nailed!

There appeared in "The Courier" Monday, Nov. 1st, an advertisement of one of our local dealers, containing the statement that in the past 16 years many changes had taken place in kindred lines, and among the number of stores as having gone out of business is mentioned the "E. Dunn Department Store." This is a falsehood, as thousands of customers can testify to. In fact, this store, the past year, with all its "hard times," has enjoyed the largest business in its history.

The "E. Dunn Department Store" has been in business here for over 35 years, and has won a most enviable reputation for fair dealing, for offering only goods of quality and for truthfulness in its advertising. This "Old Store" the "Home Store" of Connellsville, still flourishes at the same location, 129 to 133 N. Pittsburg St., as it has for years—and is very much alive in filling the wants of the people of Fayette County, notwithstanding the fact that one of its competitors would have it "out of business." A call at this busy mart, at any time, will convince anyone that "The E. Dunn Store" is very much in business—is offering larger stocks than ever before, having added several departments—and is catering to the needs of the masses. Moderate prices is the magnet which is drawing the crowds. Follow them to the

ROCKEFELLER PLAN MAY END LABOR'S WAR IN COLORADO

Acceptance by Corporation Employes is a Hopeful Sign.

THE SCHEME IS OUTLINED

Committees of Employes Are to be Elected to Handle Questions Which Become Issue Between Them and the Company; To End Disputes.

The Rockefeller plan for promoting harmonious relations between the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company and its employes has just been published in full by The Survey and shows that great pains have been taken to provide all the details for carrying out this novel arrangement.

The plan provides that employes at each of the mining camps shall annually select from their number representatives to act on their behalf with respect to matters pertaining to their employment, working and living conditions, the adjustment of differences, and such other matters of mutual concern and interest as relations within the industry may determine. Details as to the election are carefully set forth. District conferences are to be held in each of the districts as conditions may demand to discuss freely matters of mutual interest and concern to the company and its employes, including suggestions to promote efficiency and production, to improve working and living conditions, to enforce discipline, to avoid friction and to further friendly and cordial relations between the company's officers and employes. The plan provides for four joint committees on (1) industrial co-operation, (2) safety, (3) sanitation, and (4) recreation and education. The work to be done by these different committees is briefly described. In the event of the joint committee on industrial co-operation and conciliation failing satisfactorily to adjust a difference by a majority decision, or by agreement on the selection of an umpire, the matter shall be referred to arbitration, or to investigation by the state of Colorado industrial commission.

In addition to the district conferences in each of the several districts, there shall be held in December an annual joint meeting, to be attended by the president of the company and such officers as he may select and by all employes' representatives of the several districts. It is specifically provided that there shall be no discrimination by the company or by any of its employes on account of membership or non-membership in any society, fraternity or union.

The plan gives evidence on its face of having been thoroughly thought out in a spirit of fairness and its prompt acceptance by employes indicates that they are impressed favorably by it and willing to give it a trial. It is difficult to see how it can fail to promote good will. The provision for regular meetings insures the representatives of the men meeting in a friendly way from time to time when there are no industrial disputes pending.

Why a REGAL Trade-Marked Shoe Spells Economy to You

THE trade-mark on a shoe—just as on a garment or a canister of coffee—means that the reputation of the manufacturer stands behind the quality of the article.

And this, in a Regal, means that a quarter of a century's volume shoe-production and distribution to all parts of the world assures you that shoes trade-marked REGAL represent the utmost style and value that can be "built into" them at the price.

You can pay more for less value, but you can't buy more shoe value for $4.00.

Transcontinental Terminals

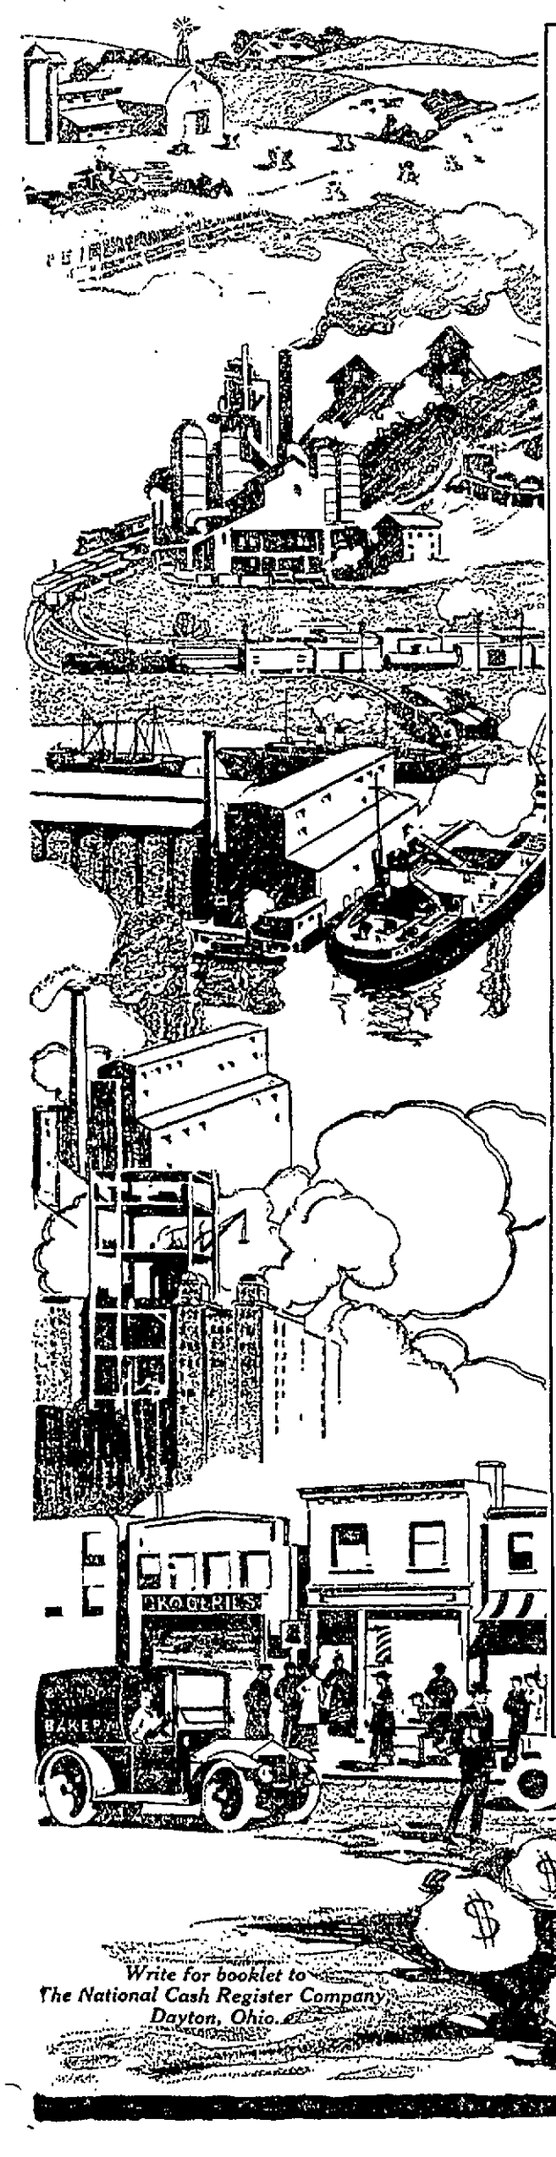

AMONG the many wonderful things worth seeing at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, which President Hadley of Yale has described as "the most beautiful and inspiring exposition the world has ever seen," the Transcontinental demonstration of the Bell System has won distinction and has been awarded the Grand Prize of Electrical Methods of Communication.

For the first time, perhaps, thousands who have visited the Bell Telephone Exhibit have realized what the wonderful long distance development of the Bell System means to them personally; how it links them to their home interests no matter where they are, and increases the range of their social and business activities.

One of the practical results of this striking demonstration of long distance development will be a larger use of the Bell long distance and toll lines which unite 9,000,000 telephones covering the whole country.

Business is booming!

Dayton, Ohio.

Merchants everywhere tell our 800 salesmen that business is booming.

Farmers have had two record crops, at big prices, with big demand at home and abroad.

Stocks of manufactured material are short, and labor is in great demand.

Exports largely exceed imports.

Factories are busy, many working overtime.

More freight cars are needed, and steamers are taxed to capacity.

People are living better, and spending their money more freely.

This country has the best money in the world, and more of it than ever before.

Such a combination of favorable circumstances never has occurred before, and probably will never occur again.

Billions of dollars are passing over the merchants' counters.

The people who spend this money want the best service.

They demand it in all kinds of stores, from the smallest to the largest.

They get it in stores which use our up-to-date Cash Registers, which quicken service, stop mistakes, satisfy customers, and increase profits.

Over a million merchants have proved our Cash Registers to be a business necessity.

WEDNESDAY EVEVG, NOV. 3, 1915.

THE ELECTION.

It's an off year in politics, but a Republican year unmistakably.

In such states as elected state officers of a political character, the Republicans have won everything north of Mississippi with Kentucky in doubt. Massachusetts has been redeemed and New Jersey has come back. In Pennsylvania, the returns indicate a reunited Republican party. In Philadelphia, the Republican candidate for Mayor has been elected by an overwhelming majority. In Fayette county the entire Republican ticket is elected by big pluralities in spite of the fact that a special effort was made to defeat a portion of it. It is reported to be close in Westmoreland county, where there is a Republican split over local affairs, but in Democratic Greene county, J. Warren Bay, Republican, has been elected Judge over his Democratic opponent, Chalfen W. Waychoff.

Ohio has again rejected Prohibition, this time by 50,000 majority, and New York has rejected its proposed new Constitution by 100,000 majority. This Constitution was largely the work of Elihu W. Root, who presided over the convention which framed it and who was an ardent advocate of its adoption. Its defeat by an overwhelming majority will probably eliminate Root as a Presidential possibility.

Woman Suffrage was rejected with great unanimity in Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts by substantial majorities. The women did not handle their cause very well and they had too many Democratic champions like William Jennings Bryan making speeches for them. Perhaps they may do better another time, but in Pennsylvania they will have to wait a matter of five years.

In Connellsville the $150,000 water bond issue was approved, but the garbage ordinance was defeated. The latter was unfortunate and was probably because the proposition was not fully understood by the voters. However, there is nothing to prevent the City Council from making a contract for the removal of garbage at the city expense if they so desire. The reference of the question to the people by the present Council was made because the members did not want to assume any responsibility in the matter.

Connellsville gave the old Councilmen some "stickers" votes, but the preferential primary ticket was elected, with a Democrat leading the poll. In Uniontown, the Reform ticket was partially successful, sufficiently so to dominate the incoming city administration, and the county seat will have its first city government upon Reform lines. Reform government is usually more respectable than efficient, but there are many exceptions.

The decks are now cleared for action in 1916. The side issues will be stowed away and the big things brought forth. The real political fight will now begin.

SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

An interesting question has been developed in the Connellsville School Board relative to the extent to which a director may be interested in furnishing school supplies.

Theoretically and morally he should not be interested at all, but in practice and in business the firms with which directors are interested acquire the habit of furnishing supplies. It seems to be so in Connellsville though it does not appear that the interest of the school district has suffered. The supplies have in all cases been furnished at the lowest cost.

There remains only the principle that the average director is apt to be prejudiced in favor of his own interest or his own firm or company.

The law wisely provides that in cases where the relatives of directors are chosen as teachers a three-fourths vote of the board shall be required to elect them. A similar requirement might be applied to the approval of bills contracted with directors or interests with which they are immediately connected.

Everybody should have a square deal in the matter of furnishing school supplies, and above all the price to the district should be the lowest available.

SLAG QUESTION BROUGHT HOME.

The slag question has entered into Connellsville's water supply.

The Baltimore & Ohio railroad seems to have been making good use of the slag apportioned to it for disposal by wasting it in the making of embankment between Connellsville and Indian Creek. Incidentally the slag has put an acid taste in the water and trouble in the boilers of Connellsville.

The situation is not a menace to the public health, though the dumping of slag in the river undoubtedly pollutes the waters. But the river is just now at a very low stage. A good rise will clean out the stream and remove all the trouble, though it is possible the condition will be recurrent to some extent during the low water of 1916.

All of which shows that Connellsville is more interested in the slag question than ever.

The Courier did not succeed in electing J. Warren Bay as Judge of Greene county at the primaries, but the people finished the job in fine style yesterday.

Dr. Katherine Wakefield carried her own ward anyhow.

The more the President votes in New Jersey the bigger the Republican majority gets.

Silent John Morrow didn't make as many promises as Counselor Hughes, but he will conduct the office of District Attorney with integrity and ability.

The conflagration of war is running through the Balkans like a mountain fire runs through the woods in the autumn season.

The Connellsville night school made an effort to figure up the election returns.

The Mexican war is pretty nearly upon us.

The sticker campaign was somewhat stuck on itself in the Fourth and Fifth wards, but it was a stranger to the other wards.

Powder mills continue to go up in both senses of the term.

Lumber prices grow faster than the trees.

The Federal Reserve banks are absorbing considerable of the home deposits. This is more interesting to Cleveland than it is to Pittsburg.

Maybe it was that acid taste that carried the water bond issue.

The by-product coke output was set back some, too, in 1914.

John Lester Keffer has sat once more at the feet of the Peerless Leader, and Fayette county is bound to hear about it sooner or later.

Eugene Trump Norton is a popular man in Connellsville.

America is exporting coke to Italy for use as locomotive fuel. It is not Connellsville coke.

Now that the election is over perhaps the Uniontown Herald is at liberty to tell just whom it was for.

Looking Backward

News of the Past Condensed from the Files of The Courier.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1885.

A wave of excitement spreads over the community when John Long, a Brookvale farmer, discovers a pocket of gas while drilling a well for water. The flow is small but when a match is applied the burning fluid furnishes a light that can be seen for a great distance. The well is discovered by Mr. Long and his tenant John Snedden, who descend the well to investigate the cause of illness among the workmen employed sinking it. They light a torch and an explosion follows, the flames singeing their hair. The value of the strike seems doubtful, though gas men are willing to option the land.

J. A. Armstrong and Chris Echard purchase the interest of J. H. Shallenberger in the Shallenberger property.

Sam B. Price, superintendent of the Leisenring coke works, and Miss Kate Clark of Hazelton, Pa., are wedded at the latter place.

A special car is provided by the Pennsylvania railroad to transport 40 persons from Connellsville, Pennsville and Moyer to Kansas, where they expect to settle permanently.

The second month of school shows an enrollment of 887 and an average attendance of 778.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1895.

Detailed report of the coke trade for the week ending Saturday, November 2, shows a total of 17,934 ovens in the region, of which 16,051 are active and 1,883 are idle, with an estimated production of 173,185 tons.

Shipments for the week aggregate 9,311 cars, consigned as follows: To Pittsburg, 2,580; to points west, 4,505; to points east, 1,766 cars.

The H. C. Frick Coke Company acquires two big coking interests in the Connellsville region, the plants of the Fairchance Furnace Works and the McClure Coke Company. The latter purchase involves 2,505 ovens and the consideration was $3,985,000. The Fairchance plant of 141 ovens brings about $150,000.

The Republicans sweep the county at the election. Fred S. Chalfant, Republican, defeats George A. McCormick for sheriff; Peter P. Smith, Republican, defeats James F. Hobbert, Democrat, for Coroner; Ira E. Partridge wins for District Attorney over his Democratic opponent, Thomas R. Wakefield; and Henry D. Core defeats Jesse D. Kerfoot for Director of the Poor.

Pennsylvania goes Republican at the election by a plurality of about 170,000.

C. V. Herrington, a Pittsburg street grocer, drops dead in Ewing's barber shop.

Y. Johnson has resigned as New Haven's peace officer and nobody being elected to the place the town is without police protection. Several robberies occur. A colored man is arrested on suspicion but he escapes from the lockup with ease.

Captain George A. Munson establishes a new record on Company D's rifle ranges, striking the bullseye five times straight at 200 yards.

"Edison's greatest wonder, the graphaphone," declared to be capable of entertaining 3,000 people, is booked to give a concert in the English Lutheran Church.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1905.

Detailed report of the coke trade for the week ending Saturday, October 28 shows a total of 23,353 ovens in the region, of which 21,483 are active and 1,870 are idle, with an estimated production of 276,339 tons.

Shipments for the week aggregate 11,229 cars, consisted as follows: To Pittsburg, 5,190 cars; to points west, 3,907 cars; to points east, 1,732 cars.

Coke remains firm at $2 a ton and all of the immense tonnage of the region is easily disposed of.

The Merchants and Manufacturers' Association of Pittsburg discussed the Pittsburg district freight rate with local business men in Carnegie Hall as part of a visit to Connellsville during a tour of the region.

Marshall Brooks resigns as manager of the R. M. Hunt shoe store after four years' service.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kendall, mother of Jacob and Samuel Kendall, dies at her home in Kendalwood, Somerset county.

The original copy of Raphael's Sistine Madonna by L. Strum is purchased by Mrs. Sarah B. Cochran and will be presented to the Cochran Memorial Church at Dawson.

The Baltimore & Ohio orders 10,000 new cars to relieve the shortage caused by the boom in coke.

The Night We Don't Go to the Movies.

The Gentle Autumn

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

The gentle autumn takes place about half way between the sunstroke and the chilblain, and lasts until just before the coal man buys his new automobile. It is that period of the year when the mercury goes steadily down hill and prepares to crawl into its bulb and hibernate.

The gentle autumn would be a great relief from summer, if it were not for autumn itself. Mankind is too busy working in the autumn to enjoy it properly. Autumn is the time of the year when the last winter's overcoat must be dug out of the attic, and the vines and flowers must be put to bed, and the modest geraniums must be rooted up and lugged down cellar. The furnace also begins to clamor during the autumn. It is not as voracious as it is later on, but it must be nourished on kindling and coal almost every morning, and as the worried householder realizes that he now has another mouth to feed, he sometimes wishes that autumn had never been invented.

Autumn is very beautiful in spots, but poets do not sing about it as much as they do about spring. This is because about September most poets stop writing and begin to hunt real jobs. The universal opinion of those who do not write is that autumn is a sad and melancholy time when nature's beauties slowly die and heaven weeps large cold tears over the last baseball games.

This is quite largely true. The death of the leaves is a particularly distressing thing, and will continue to be until Mr. Burbank invents a brand of leaf which will not die on the lawn or in the eave spouts.

Autumn is the time of the year when the last winter's overcoat must be dug out of the attic.

Autumn is the time of the year when we make the saddening discovery that large families of moths have been guarding against race suicide in our last winter's clothes. Housecleaning also ranges in the autumn, and great numbers of political boomlets fall into the long sleep that has no waking. Nothing is sadder than to see a plucky little boomlet, which has struggled all summer in an adverse climate, only to die under a snowdrift in the slush of the autumn—except to see the candidate who has hoped to sit at ease under its shade, but who is now hunting for a job which he does not want and hopes he will not find, but which he has to have.

Autumn is the advance agent of winter, and frequently gets behind the snow. It is full of days which are too cold for comfort, but not cold enough to permit the burning of $6 coal with anything like pleasure. The American autumn is like the English summer—only comfortable in spots. But the English summer is the only English season which is comfortable at all. This explains why the United States has gained 95,000,000 people from England and vicinity in the last 100 years.

COUNTRY SUNDAY SCHOOL SHOWS A GREAT PROGRESS

Has a Day Whose Program Would Enliven Any School

AT THE JACOB'S CREEK CHURCH

People Who Worshipped There Half a Century Ago Come Back to Historic House; Names of Those Who Made Affair a Success in Every Way

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDALE, Nov. 3.—The Rally Day services held by the Jacobs Creek Methodist Episcopal Sunday school on Sunday afternoon was a great success, and proved to be a Home Coming Day as many people who had attended services in this historic church more than half a century ago came long distances in response to the invitations sent out, to again worship there as in bygone days. Happy days of the olden times were recalled and stories exchanged while the folks visited together at the close of the two hours service. From the time that "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow" opened the program until "My Jesus, I Love Thee" swelled forth in a reverent and triumphant melody at the close of the service everything showed the forward move of this country Sunday school.

Edward M. Anderson, the superintendent, conducted a half hour Sunday school session, by having a lively ten minutes of song service lead by Jacob Kooser, followed by prayer by H. S. Forsythe, and the Bible lesson from Romans 1, 2 read by the pastor, Rev. G. M. Allshouse. The classes were in session for a short lesson study while Roy Martz and Avis Slaughter, the secretaries, prepared the day's record. After singing by the congregation, Superintendent Anderson introduced Miss Amy Jane Porter as the one in charge of the Promotion and Recognition service, he since she had won the highest number of points in the year's record. Certificates of promotion were awarded by Miss Porter to the following: Junior to Intermediate: William Brown, William Collins, James Kunkle, Harland Detwiler, George McClellan, William Slaughter and Arthur McClellan

A. C Stoner received the certificates and gave them to the boys, he being their teacher. Mrs. Will Imes, secondary division superintendent, greeted each boy as a member of her department, presenting him with the blue and white pin, the emblem of the Teen Age Division, and invited the class of a reception to be held for them in the church on Saturday evening, November 66, at 7:30 o'clock, by the boys and girls from 13 to 20 years of age, assisted by the teachers

From the Primary to the Junior department, Louise Ottenberg was given the certificate by her teacher, Mrs. James B. Fretts and her new teacher, Miss Pearl Riley received her and gave her a place in the Junior class.

Gertrude Dull, Roberta Taylor and Charles Brown then came to the platform with the beginner's teacher, Mary Gorman who received from Miss Porter their certificates and recommended them to their new teacher, Mrs Fretts, who greeted them and took them into her care as primary scholars.

The Cradle Roll superintendent, Miss Celia Porter, brought forth a class of nine, three year old boys and girls, Adelaide McCarthy, James Whaley, Albert Ottenberg, Clyde Keefer, Kenneth Kooser, Ralph Wilson, Robert Hixson, Arthur McClain and John Edward Machulka, who were delighted to receive their certificates.

Celia Porter then presented the names of 20 babies for the Cradle Roll with the birthday cards and other belongings of the Cradle Roll to the new superintendent, Mrs. Viola Kooser. Mrs. Kooser gave carnations to each of the babies present and they all made a beautiful sight as they were brought to the platform by their mothers or fathers.

The recognition of the honor roll members was another big feature of the afternoon. Those there were called to the platform those who attended 40 or more Sundays of the conference year, October 1914 to October 1915, as follows: Amy Porter, Jessie Tedrow, Marie McClellan, Avis Slaughter, Mrs Frank Chain, Dessa Porter, Gladys Reagan, Rupert Blacka, Ralph McClellan, Ivan Porter, A. C. Stoner, Harland Detwiler, Irene Chain, A. B Binch, E. M. Anderson, Celia Porter, Pearl Riley, Leonard Chain, Roy Martz, George McClellan, Arthur McClellan, Edna Dull, Polly Chain, Mary Gorman, Miss Sue Riley, Millie Brown, Frances Slaughter, Pearl Tedrow, William Brown, Mrs. J. B. Fretts, Mrs. A. B. Binch and Earl Tedrow.

W. M Thompson of Uniontown gave a message of congratulation and a neat silk bookmark with the word "Honor" printed on it as a souvenir of the record of each pupil.

Louis H. Rush sang "I Have a Friend" in a very pleasing manner, and the Honor Roll No. 2 was then called consisting of those who had made a record of 32 Sundays, or more than 100 points, computing 20 points for Sunday school attendance, 20 points for offering and 40 points for church attendance. The number of 100 points was as follows: 51, Amy Porter and Marie McClellan; 49, Rupert Blacka, Mrs. Frank Chain and Dessa Porter; 45, Albert B Binch, Edna Dull and Mary Gorman; 41, Celia Porter, Gladys Reagan, A. C. Stoner, E. M. Anderson and Irene Chain, 40, Roy Martz and Mona Chain, 39, Harland Detwiler; 38, Jessie Tedrow; 37, Avis Slaughter and Mrs. Sue Riley; 35, Mrs. J. B. Fretts and Pearl Riley; 34, Leonard Chain and William Brown; 32, John Blacka and Polly Chain.

These also were given a silk bookmark and a word of praise from Mr. Thompson, and to this address the response was made by Mrs. Frank Chain who said she had never enjoyed a year so much in her life, for instead of often giving away to her feelings she had worked hard to be a part of this record Sunday school, from which she always received a blessing.

The Teacher Training graduates of the year, Celia Porter, Jessie Tedrow, Goldie Ware and Avis Slaughter were called to the platform, and then all the people who had been graduated from Teacher Training were asked to stand back of these new graduates and the crowd that came aroused a storm of applause. H. S. Forsythe, of the State Force of the Sunday School, gave a rousing address and presented the diplomas to the class. When he asked those in the newly organized class to come forward, some 20 responded N. B Lyons, president of the Everson district of the Fayette County Sunday School Association, was present with the beautiful banner won by the 15 schools of his district of which the Jacobs Creek school is one, and the Advanced Standard banner, the two banners adding much to the decorations.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA!

Get a small package of Humburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Humburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

RUB RHEUMATIC PAIN, SORENESS, STIFFNESS

Rub Pain Right Out With Small Trial Bottle of "Old St. Jacob's Oil."

What's Rheumatism? Pain only. Stop drugging! Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" directly upon the "tender spot" and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacobs Oil" is a harmless rheumatism and sciatica liniment, which never disappoints and can not burn the skin.

Limber up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle from your druggist, and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic and sciatic pain, soreness, stiffness and swelling. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you. Old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" has cured millions of rheumatism sufferers in the last half century, and is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains and swellings.—Adv.

CURES PIMPLES EASILY

Simple Remedy That Clears Skin Quickly of All Eruptions.

For several weeks past A. A Clarke has done a big business in selling Hokara, the skin healer that has won so many friends in Connellsville.

It has been found to heal not only all minor skin troubles, such as pimples, blackheads, herpes, acne, scaly scalp, complexion blemishes, itching feet, piles, etc., but also the worst sores, ulcers, or even chronic eczema and salt rheum. There is yet to be found any form of wound or disease affecting the skin or mucous membrane that Hokara does not help, and its action is so quick that those who try it are simply delighted with it right from the start.

In spite of its unusual curative powers, the price is trifling. To convince every one of its merits, A. A. Clarke will sell a liberal-sized jar for 25c. And remember that if you do not think it does what it claims, you can get your money back. You certainly can afford to try it on this plan.—Adv.

WHY "ANURIC" IS AN INSURANCE AGAINST SUDDEN DEATH!

Sufferers From Backache, Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble

Before an insurance Company will take a risk on your life the examining physician will test the urine and report whether you are a good risk. When your kidneys get sluggish, clog, you suffer from backache, sick-headache, dizzy spells, or the twinges and pains of lumbago, rheumatism and gout. The urine is often cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore and sleep is disturbed two or three times a night. This is the time you should consult some physician of wide experience—such as Dr. Pierce, of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. Send him 10 cents for sample package of his new discovery—"Anuric." Write him your symptoms and send a sample of urine for test. Experience has taught Dr. Pierce that "Anuric" is the most powerful agent in dissolving uric acid, as hot water melts sugar, besides being absolutely harmless and is endowed with other properties, for it preserves the kidneys in a healthy condition by thoroughly cleansing them. Being so many times more active than lithia, it clears the heart valves of any sandy substances which may clog them and checks the degeneration of the blood-vessels, as well as regulating blood pressure. "Anuric" is a regular insurance and life-saver for all big meat eaters and those who deposit lime-salts in their joints. Ask the druggist for "Anuric" put up by Dr. Pierce, in 50-cent packages.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for the liver and bowels have been favorably known for nearly 50 years.—Adv.

SMITHFIELD.

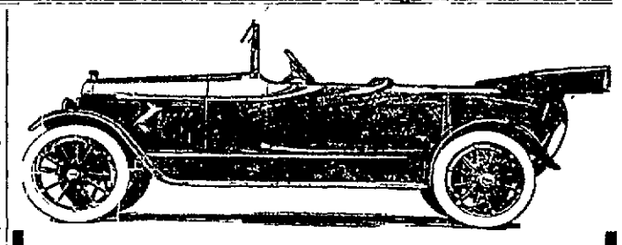

SMITHFIELD, Nov 3.—Mary Crow has returned to her home in Morgantown, after a visit to relatives here.

John Baer, Sr., has long had a desire to get the old men of town and vicinity who are near his own age together and have a picture taken of them. Something had heretofore always interfered with the consummation of his desire. Monday, the day being an ideal one, he succeeded in rounding up a group of nine whose ages ranke from 72 to 86 years, and whose combined ages is 714 years. Their names, ages, and where born follows: A. W. Clawson, born in Fayette county, age 86; D. W. Field, Springhill township, age 84, John Baer, Masontown, age 82; James C. Hahn, Nicholson township, age 81; W. C. Suckett, Smithfield, age 81; Samuel Wilson, Franktown, Blair county, age 78; Dr. I. M. Hill, Washington county, age 72; W. S. Bailey, Preston county, W Va., age 75, Henry O'Neil, Fayette county, age 73. Five of the number, Hahn, Wilson, Hill, Bailey and O'Neil, served their country in the Civil War. With the exception of A. W. Clawson they are all now residents of Smithfield. J. F. Smith, a merchant here and an amateur photographer, took the group from the old McCleary corner.

Henry Brown aged 90 years, colored, died at the home of his son at 1 o'clock P. M. Monday. Funeral will be held Thursday at 1 o'clock at the house, and services at the Second Baptist Church at 2 o'clock. Interment in the Baptist cemetery.

Judson Grimm got seven rabbits Monday and says he could have killed 10, the limit for one day, but got tired walking and came in. Others to report got from two to four each. This seems to discredit the report that had gained credence here before the season opened that rabbits were scarce.

At the Theatres

SOISSON THEATRE.

"THE BATTLE OF SEXES"—D. W. Griffith, author of "The Birth of a Nation," will present his powerful six reel masterpiece, "The Battle of the Sexes," at the Soisson Theatre today. The play is a drama of New York life among people of wealth and refinement. The characters are typical of Fifth avenue, the famous restaurants and the exclusive "The Dansants." All the action transpires in an apartment house of the most expensive sort, and the gowns of the women are an added attraction worthy of mention. The popular actress, Clara Madison also appears today in the three reel Rex feature, "A Mother's Atonement." Miss Madison plays a dual role of mother and daughter and is great in the part. "A One Cylinder Courtship" is a Nestor comedy with Billie Rhodes in the lead. It is an amusing story of how a country boy bested a city sport. Tomorrow the famous "J. Rufus Wallingford" picture will be shown with Max Cluman and Burr McIntosh in the leading roles.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

"THE SPOILERS."—It has been the fashion of late to picturize the works of famous authors and Selig has advanced this as a fine art in "The Spoilers" from the book of Rex Beach in the most spirited and vital fashion. This moving picture play in nine reels had its first public presentation at the spacious and beautiful new Standard Theatre on Broadway in New York City. It followed this success with a three month's engagement at the Studebaker Theatre, Chicago, and just recently ended a two month's record-breaking run at the Chestnut Street Opera House, Philadelphia.

The significant voice of the great centers where this picture has been shown speaks volumes for the production which will undoubtedly become a phenomenal attraction wherever presented. "The Spoilers" is the most virile and red-blooded romance ever filmed. It has been vitalized in stunning fashion, reflecting upon the astuteness of its progenitor, Wm. N. Selig, and the deep, live sympathetic sense of its producer, Colin Campbell, as well as in the vigorous and responsive acting of William Farnum and all the other artists enlisted to make it a star cast extraordinary. The great production will be seen here again tomorrow at the Colonial Theatre as the result of many requests from those who saw it before.

"THE SECRET ORCHARD."—Miss Blanche Sweet who makes her appearance as the star in the tense photo drama, "The Secret Orchard," which is the attraction at the Colonial Theatre today, has a part teeming with lovely feminism, romantic moments, tragic realities and human pathos. Channing Pollock wrote the play from which the picturization is made and it was one of the most popular plays by this dramatist, who writes for the great mass of theatregoers. In this play Miss Sweet is supported by an excellent cast including Carlyle Blackwell, who will be remembered for his excellent work in "The Puppet Crown." In this tense photo drama Miss Sweet surpasses all her former successes, and lovers of good photoplay can't afford to pass up this opportunity of seeing her in "The Secret Orchard."

"UNCLE TOMS CABIN."

Earl Burgess' production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will appear at the Colonial Theatre, matinee and night, Friday, November 5. Mr. Burgess has successfully solved the problem of combining the old and the new "Uncle Tom's Cabin" into a big spectacular play that leaves out nothing worth retaining of either the straight method or the circus method. All of the worthy features of the old landmarks are retained, while the thread of the story has been cleverly reconstructed making it more coherent; this, with the introduction of a host of high-class specialties thoroughly in keeping with the piece, goes far toward forming an evening's entertainment. It will be a real loss to miss witnessing this production, which is just a little better than the one you thought the best. Seat sale opens at Huston's Drug Store tomorrow morning.

GLOBE THEATRE.

"ONE PERFORMANCE ONLY."—Thomas H. Mills is appearing today in a great Vitagraph Broadway Feature in three acts, "One Performance Only." Mr. Mills is a favorite screen actor and his fine production affords him a wonderful opportunity to display his ability as an actor. "Gangsters of the Hills," a powerful Kalem drama in two acts, is also an interesting production. An all star cast is featured. Billy Rhoves in "The Life Guard," Lubin comedy, concludes the bill. Tomorrow Julia Swayne Gordon, a screen idol, will be starred in "Hearts Adrift," a Vitagraph Broadward Star Feature in three acts.

ARCADE THEATRE.

The Metro Pictures Corporation and its affiliated companies have produced no screen production more thrilling, more interesting or more absorbing than the Dorcas Art Film Corporations latest output entitled "Four Feathers." This is a dramatization of Captain A. E. W. Mason's much read novel of the same name, which is internationally famous.

Enlisted in the two leading roles are Howard Estabrook and Irene Warfield. The cast is a long one with the addition of numerous players who participate in the pictorial and sensational features of the picture. The dramatic enlargements which make war so appealing to movie fans, are in full force in "Four Feathers," but are presented here without the horrors of those conflicts.

"Four Feathers" marks a further step in the advance made during the past year among the more up to date producers of moving picture features. This production will be seen at the Arcade Theatre today. Tomorrow William Fox presents Anna Nelson and Rockcliffe Fellows in the famous problem play, "Regeneration."

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' decades of research in liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't salivate the teeth like strong liquid calomel. They take hold of the liver and make it do its work. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids.

It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dollish" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "blues" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how fine they "pick up" the spirits. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

MISS ROBSON PLEASES

Famous Comedienne is Delightful in Part of "Aunt Mary."

The small audience which greeted May Robson at the Colonial last night proved to be about the most enthusiastic of the season and deservedly so for there never was a show more worthy of appreciation than "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary." Oh! it was, but so delightful with Miss Robson in the title role. "Aunt Mary" is the whole show. The story of the play is woven around her quaint personality and it gives Miss Robson full opportunity to show her talents as a character comedienne. She was ably supported by a cast of youthful artists, chief of which was Jack Storey as the scapegrace nephew.

Miss Robson's sketch "John Henry" with which she is to take a plunge into vaudeville was put on before "Aunt Mary." It was well done and proved decidedly amusing, but its climax seemed tame. The performance has not attained the required smoothness yet, though Miss Robson's personality will carry it through. As usual she dominates the action and rises above her vehicle. The youth who played the burglar burlesqued the part. It seemed.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" comes to the Colonial Friday, matinee and night.

Sore Throat Don'ts.

When the children have sore throat, don't blister their necks with lamp oil. Don't torture them with a foul smelling piece of fat meat, wrapped about the neck. Don't imagine there is medical virtue in an old sock or piece of red flannel. Don't believe in antiquated superstitions.

A sore throat is a serious matter and is not to be healed by such make-believe remedies. The use of such methods is simply putting the patient to needless torture. Use a little sore throat wisdom and give them TONSILINE and the throat will heal quickly. 25 cents and 50 cents. Hospital Size $1.00. All Druggists.

A SKIRT THAT GIVES THE EFFECT OF HOOPS.

Under this pretty dance frock of white tulle and satin is a petticoat of net into which are run light wires. The skirt is also distended slightly below the hips. A dainty effect of drapery is achieved by looping up one of the satin flounces under a bunch of geranium red velvet berries. The bodice is of tulle and silver-embroidered net like the trimming on the skirt.

MRS. THOMSON TELLS WOMEN

How She Was Helped During Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I am just 52 years of age and during Change of Life I suffered for six years terribly. I tried several doctors but none seemed to give me any relief. Every month the pains were intense in both sides, and made me so weak that I had to go to bed. At last a friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and I tried it at once and found much relief. After that I had no pains at all and could do my housework and shopping the same as always. For years I have praised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me, and shall always recommend it as a woman's friend. You are at liberty to use my letter in any way."—Mrs. THOMSON, 649 W. Russell St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Change of Life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to carry women so successfully through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

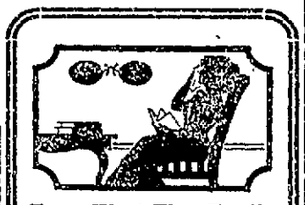

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

CHAPTER I.

Out of the Vine Maples.

Siletz sat, her knees drawn up to her chin, on the flat top of a fir stump. Beside her lay Coosnah, heavy muzzle on huge paws, his eyes as pale as the girl's were dark. They were hill-bred both. Perhaps that accounted for the delight both found in the solitude of this aerie, where they could look down toward the west on the feathery, green sea of close-packed pine and fir, of spruce and hemlock—and toward the east on the narrow strip of tide-water slough and the unpainted shacks of the lumber camp huddled above its railway. It was the magnificent timber country of the great Northwest.

Siletz was wondering, as she always did, how far the mountains ran to the south, how far it was to that 'frisco of which she had heard so much from the tramp loggers who came and went with the seasons, their "turkeys" on their backs and the joyous liberty of the irresponsible forever tugging at their eccentric souls.

Over the facing ridge she knew that the cold Pacific roared and coaxed on the ships, to play with them in the hoil of Vancouver coast. She could hear it sometimes when the pines were still; yet she had never seen it.

She had pictures of it in her mind, many pictures. She knew well how it would look when she should see it—a gray floor, a world of it, shot through with the reds and purples of a tardy sun. Of the cities she had no clear pictures. They were artificial, man made, therefore alien to her, who knew only nature, though she had listened intently to roamers from every corner of the globe; for Daily's lumber camp had seen a queer lot.

It all resolved itself into these dreams when she sat on the edge of a fir stump, or, better yet, in the exalted cloud-high airiness of the very apex of the flag flack.

There had been no sun, neither today nor for many days; and yet there was as surely prescience of approaching night as if shadows forewarned. Siletz had hoped for a break, one of those short pageants when the sun should shoot for a moment into the gloom, transfiguring the world. Now, as she scanned the west, the dog suddenly rose from beside her, peering down with his huge head thrust forward, his pendulous ears swaying. A hundred feet below in a tangle of vine maple something was laboring. Presently the slim trees parted and out of their tangle struggled a horse, a magnificent black beast with flaring nostrils and full, excited eyes. After every few steps it turned its head to right or left with the instinct of the mountain breed to zigzag, and as often the man in the saddle pulled it sharply back.

With the first sight of the intruders the girl on the high stump had sprung up, leaning forward, a growing excitement in her face. It was the horse that caused it. Something was stirring within her all suddenly and her heart beat hard. She gripped her braids tight in both hands and swallowed.

"Blunderer," she said aloud. "Oh, the blunderer!"

Then she cupped her hands at her lips and called down: "Let him alone! He knows how to climb! Let him alone!"

The man looked up startled, and tightened his grip on the rein. The gallant animal went down upon its side, rolling completely over, to lodge, feet downward, against a stone. The man swung sidewise out of the saddle, saving himself with a splendid quickness. Before he could gather himself for action the girl tore down upon him.

"What have you done?" she cried wildly, "what have you done to it?"

She dropped on her knees and her hands went fluttering over the black head in a very passion of pity, touching the white star on the forehead, smoothing the quivering nostrils.

"Why didn't you let him climb his own way? He knew—he's a bunch-grasser. Nothing could go straight up!"

She raised her eyes to him and he saw they were burning behind a film of tears. He saw also what gave him a strange feeling of shock—a faint, blue tracery extending from the left corner of her lips downward nearly to the point of the chin, a sharply broken fragment of a tattooed design. Her eyes were very dark and her hair, parted after the first fashion of woman, was straight and very dark also.

The accusing words irritated him.

"You're right," he said coldly, "nothing could—in such a country. Stand back, please."

Siletz looked up at him and instinctively rose to her feet, though her slim body was alert with an unconscious readiness for prevention of something.

But the man only stepped to the black's head, tightened the rein a bit and clucked encouragingly.

"Come up," he said sharply, "up, boy!"

The horse stretched its head forward, arched its neck, gathered its feet and lurched mightily upward, finding difficulty and floundering a little by reason of the stone which had saved it from rolling down the mountain. It placed its feet gingerly, bracing against the declivity, shook itself vigorously, drew a good, long breath and turned its soft nose to investigate the girl. With a little gurgling cry her hands went out again to caress it, hungrily, forgetful of the man, her face alight with the joy of its escape from injury. She smiled and passed her hands along the high neck, over the shoulder, down to the knee, bending to finger with a deft swiftness the fetlock and pastern.

When she looked up again she smiled at the man frankly, her anger gone.

"He's all right, but you want to give him the rein. He knows how to go up all right. All Oregon horses can climb if you give them their time and way."

He slipped the bridle over his arm.

"I'm looking for Daily's lumber camp. Can you tell me how to get there and how near I am?"

"It's right over the ridge. You'll see it from the top!"

"Thanks," he said, lifted his soft, gray hat perfunctorily and turned up the slope.

He took the ascent straight, with a certain grimness of purpose. Soon he felt a slight pull on the reins toward the left, which slackened immediately to repeat itself to the right. The black was trying to zigzag in the narrow play of the confining bridle. After an interval that tried him severely in muscle and breath the stranger reached the sharp crest of the ridge.

Below him lay the valley, the winding slough, the yellow huddle of the camp, the toy railway, with its tiny engine, the donkey whose puffing rose in a white spiral, the rollways and the huge log trail winding up the other slope like a giant serpent. Even as he looked there came the staccato toots of the whistle-bob whose invisible line crept away into the hills above the cables, the engine got down to work with a volley of coughs, the spools screamed and the great steel rope lifted heavily along the trail.

"Blunderer!" She Said Aloud.

Presently a long, gray shape, ghostly and sinister, came creeping over the lower ridge, sliding down the face of the hills, silent, relentless, a veritable thing of life. He leaned forward, watching it come to rest above the rollway, halt a little while the antlike men darted here and there, and then roll sidewise into position against the stays.

When the small play of the woods was over, just as he started down he glanced involuntarily back along the way he had come.

The girl still stood by the bowlder looking up, her face illumined by that light he had noticed, and he was quick enough to comprehend that it was passionate longing for the big black behind him. She had forgotten his presence. Out of the ferns had crept the mammoth mongrel. They two stood together in a subtle comradeship which struck him by its isolated sufficiency.

CHAPTER II.

An Amazing Arrival.

It was quitting time—quitting time in the coast country, which means whatever time the light fades. Presently the loggers came creeping down the trail, sturdy men in spiked boots laced to the knee, blue flannel shirts, and, for the most part, corduroys. They trooped down to the cook-shack, a long building of unpainted pine, its two side doors leading, the one into the dining room, the other sheltered by a rude porch, into the kitchen.

Inside, "Ma" Daily, a white-haired general of meals and men in their order, creaked heavily from oven to pine sink, her placid face flaming with the heat of the great steel range.

The eating room was long and narrow, its pine floor innocent of covering. From end to end ran two long tables, neat in white oilcloth, with intervals of catchup bottles, pepper sauce, sugar bowls, cream pitchers, and solidly built receptacles for salt and pepper. Along both edges stood an army of white earthenware plates, flanked by bone-handled knives and forks and tin spoons.

At the west, beside an open door, was a high pine desk littered with papers, a telephone hung at one side. A small table stood before a window, with a rocking chair in proximity—one of those low, old-fashioned rocking chairs that old women use, and that invariably hold a patchwork cushion with green fringe, and a white knitted tidy. That rocker was part of Daily's camp. It had followed the march of progress as the camp cut its way into the hills.

"It's my one comfort," Ma was wont to say, "though land knows I don't get to set in it more'n a quarter what I'd like."

As the loggers slid noisily on to the benches, their caulks giving up the mud they had held purposely for the swept floor, Siletz came and went, setting the substantial viands in the open spaces left in the expanse of white oilcloth. She exchanged a word here and there, always a sensible word, something of the work, the day, or the men themselves. She was putting a plate of cookies, sugar-sanded, with currants on top, between Jim Anworthy and a black-haired Pole, when a foot struck the step at the west door. There was something in the sound that drew every head around at once. A stranger stood against the misty darkness between the jambs.

He was young, apparently about twenty-five or six, well set up, with straight shoulders above narrow hips and a poise that claimed instant attention. He removed his soft hat, holding it in his hand, while his bright, blue eyes looked impersonally over the room. Over his shoulder a pair of big, dark ones peered anxiously, while a black muzzle with a small, white patch nosed his elbow aside.

"John Daily?"

It was a call that demanded, not a question.

From the head of the nearest table a giant of a man, easy natured, lax featured, loose joints banded together by steel sinews, rose lumberingly.

"I'm him," he said.

The man in the door brought his eyes sharply to focus on his face, reading it with lightning rapidity.

"I'm the Dillingworth Lumber company—or most of it," he said clearly, "and I've come to stay. Where shall I put my horse?"

There was a startled silence after these amazing words. An unexpressed ejaculation went from face to face up and down the tables. Then John Daily showed why he was the best foreman in that region. He got himself loose from the end bench and walked over to the door.

"All right, Mr.—?"

He waited easily, as if it was perfectly natural for strangers to drop from a hilltop and announce themselves the ruling power of the country, or more strictly speaking one of the ruling powers, for there were two.

"Sandry," finished the other, "Walter Sandry—from New York."

"Come in, Mr. Sandry—you're just in time."

Daily turned back to the lighted room.

"Siletz, give Mr. Sandry my place, Harrison, I'll have to take your filing shed for tonight. Tomorrow we'll fix things in better shape."

The sawfiler, an important personage and one to be conciliated, frowned in his place, but the foreman had lost sight of him. He reached out a huge, hard hand and took the bridle-rein from the newcomer.

Already this man was standing inside the rude building, with a high-headed air of force, of personality that made itself felt in the most stolid nature present. He glanced down the double line of faces and for a second, just a fractional, fleeting moment, seemed to hesitate. Then he laid his hat on the small table, walked round to Daily's empty seat, swung a leather puttee and a well-built shoe over the bench and sat down. He was in place, and a vague feeling of adjustment, of solidity, accompanied him, as if he was there, as he said, to stay. Every man in the room felt it; and one of those strange sensations of portent communicated itself to them, as when the everyday affairs of life come to a turn in the road.

Daily's was on the eve of a change.

The girl was putting a thick, white plate, hot from boiling water, before him, deftly laying the simple cutlery, pushing back an intruding dish. There was an air of detachment about her. No portion of her garments touched him. She was always so, aloof in a quiet way. Now, as she tended the stranger silently, one of her long braids slipped over her shoulder and fell across his hand. He drew away from the contact sharply and a dozen pairs of eyes saw the action.

"Hell!" murmured a man at the other side in mild amazement.

But not even the importance of the arrival of the Dillingworth Lumber company could keep silent this bunch of men from the ends of the earth.

They were free lances, following wherever fancy and the lumber camps led them through the mountains and the big woods, contented in this place or moving on, bound by no rules, as independent and unholdable as the very birds of the air.

In three minutes the laughter was sweeping gustily again, accompanied by the solid clink of cook-shack dishes, the clatter of knives for the most part used as very adequate shovels, and Walter Sandry was forgotten or passed over.

An hour later he stood alone in the middle of a tiny room at the south of the building, looking fixedly at the yellow flame of a glass hand-lamp on a stand. Under the lamp was a woolly mat of bright red yarn, a wonderful creation—under that a thin, white scarf, beautifully clean, the ironed creases standing out stiffly. Beside the lamp lay a pink-tipped conch shell and a Bible.

Sandry looked longest at the Bible beside the lamp and presently he took it up curiously, fingering it with a quizzical, weary smile.

Its edges were thin and frayed and he noticed that it was greatly worn.

Walter Sandry smiled and glanced at random through the book.

"Motherhood," he said half aloud, "Is there nowhere a father?—a dear old chap of the earth, a gentle old man with white hair? One who has raised a son—" As if in answer to the whimsical words, the fragile leaves separated at the tragic record of King David and the words of that ancient father-heart stared up at him. "Oh, Absalom, my son, my son!" vital in their anguish. With a snap he closed the book, holding it tightly clasped in his hands while he stared into the flame of the lamp with knit brows and twitching lips.

It Was a Call That Demanded.

It was as if the fateful cry had touched some sore spot in his heart, set throbbing some half-healed pain. For a moment a shadow as of a vague remorse darkened his expressive face. Then a resolute strength tightened his lips and he laid the Bible gently down and blew out the light.

It was cold in the little room and the rain was dripping from the eaves.

CHAPTER III.

The Wondrous Hills at Dawn.

He was awakened next morning by the thunder of heavily shod men storming in from the bunkhouse. The smell of cooking was in the air and the crack under his door showed lamplight.

The rain was still dripping softly from the eaves. As Sandry came into the eating room the old woman of the kitchen was looking over the crowd of men as impersonally as he himself had done the night before, with a poise as assured and a subtle force as strongly indicated.

Her bright, old eyes, blue as his own, met his lifted glance as he hesitated.

"Set down in the place you had last night, Mr. Sandry," she said in a rich voice, "it's yours now. John'll move down a notch."

She went back into the mysterious region of pies and doughnuts, and Sandry was conscious of a slight feeling of wonder. He was already taken in as one of the family in a subtle way, and it did not quite suit him to be so. If he missed certain lifelong attributes of service and surrounding, if he took his place among these rough men with an inward tremor of rebellion, he made no sign.

Again the girl he had met on the farther side of the mountain tended in silence, a trifle more aloof. She was clad in the same sort of blue flannel shirt the men wore, with a red tie under the turndown collar and a rather short blue skirt showing her foot laced trimly into miniature boots. The latter were even full of small steel caulks.

It was still dark when the loggers trooped out into the fine rain.

John Daily came to him.

"Now, what would you like, Mr. Sandry?" he asked. "Will you come into the hills with us, or would you rather ast around camp? You come a long ways, I guess."

"Yes. From New York."

"I was thinkin' yesterday mebby you'd rather just loaf around—"

"Yesterday? Did you expect me?"

"Oh, yes. I got a letter from Mr. Brazer last week. He said the company had made a change and I might look for a visit."

"I think I'll go about," said Sandry.

Outside it was fresh and slightly cold. A thick, white fog struck him in the face with an almost palpable touch. It lay close to the earth, a sluggish monster spread down in the valleys as if for warmth. Through its enshrouding whiteness a lantern gleamed faintly across the slough.

Already the little locomotive was getting up steam and the donkey craved a red throat for an instant as Donnie shoved in more wood.

From ahead came shouts and a laugh or two as the men straggled up to the rollway.

There were five cabins set around on the edge of the small, sloping mountain meadow which gave background for Daily's camp; and in all the windows lights were gleaming. In one cabin a door opened and a man came out, stopping a moment on the sill to reach up and kiss a woman, who stood silhouetted against the light, when the door closed and Sandry could not see the man, though he could hear his footsteps. The foreman swung ahead in the path.

"They's a foot-log here," he said, "tidewater slough. Tain't deep."

They stopped at the foot of the ridge where the donkey, the rollway and the track terminal huddled against the bold uplift, and Daily introduced him to Hastings and Murphy, the latter of whom hung out of the window of his diminutive cab and peered at the stranger out of laughing eyes whose forbears had twinkled on Donegal's blue bay and Erin's red-checked daughters with impartial joy.

"Ah, Misther Dillingworth," he said heartily, "an' phat d'ye t'ink av the West Coast now?"

"Sandry, Murphy," caught up Daily easily, yet with a warning note.

"Shure! Sandry 'tis! Excuse me, Misther Sandry, but ain't th' scenery foine?"

"What I've seen, yes, Murphy," answered Sandry after a slight pause. As he turned after Daily the Irishman stuck his tongue in the corner of his lips and drummed a minute on the sill, the broad smile lessening on his reckless face.

"An' phat d'ye know about thot?" he asked retrospectively of the fog.

Out of the near gloom, which was lightening a bit with dawn, the log trail rose, an aggressive snakelike trough climbing uncompromisingly at an angle of 36 degrees, its center a straight pine log sunk to its surface, which was polished like ivory, its slightly curving sides the same. How many tapering trunks had gone into its two miles would be hard to say, for in some places they had sunk and been covered—in the dip, say, over the ridge where the real mountain began, at the turn where it wound around the Shoulder.

Before ten minutes Sandry was breathing heavily, though he said nothing and kept close at Daily's heels. The logger strode forward and upward with an easy, climbing lift that rippled every muscle in his loose body, while the man from the cities strained and heaved in painful labor, slipping on the wet earth, floundering in the rotten bark and brush that lined the way. They climbed beside the trail, not in it. Ahead of them the gang of men had long since disappeared from sight and hearing.

The forenoon that followed was the opening page in a new chapter of his life, and Sandry bent all his faculties to a grasp of outlines.

He stood silently watching the work go forward. They had reached the cutting. Here, in a wide dip high above the world, it seemed to the Easterner, was a huge circle of activity. Close beside the built trail a second donkey engine fussed and screamed, reaching out uncannily on all sides for the great logs, to haul them in with screech of spool and strain of cable and turn them over to the mysterious steel rope that came constantly crawling back on its traveling line. This was called the "yarding engine"—the one at the foot of the trail beside the rollway and the track being known as the "roader."

The monotonous song of the crosscut saws had begun where the buckers were converting several hundred-and-fifty-foot trunks into handling sections.

A little below, two foot-wide planks some five or six feet long had been set into a giant yellow pine about eight feet from the ground, one on either side, and on these two men were standing, their flannel shirts open at the throat, their sleeves rolled up from arms of steel and leather, their heads bare. Sandry watched the bending of their backs, every muscle outlined under the clinging shirts, the play of their knees, the whole easy rippling of their entire bodies with the regular give and take of the long saw. The boards, known as springboards, rose and dipped with the even motion.

These men were fallers, and presently they would lay the towering monarch of the great woods to the fraction of an inch in a given place, ready for the buckers, the hook-tender and the cable.

In the meantime the logs already down were swiftly stripped of their limbs, cut into thirty and forty foot lengths, rolled into the trail with peavey and cant hook, and sent up and over the ridge to the accompaniment of shrill toots from the whistle-bob's restless cord, the straining of rigging and the squeak of fiber on polished fiber.

The built trail ended here in the shallow hollow between the first ridge and the great mountain beyond, though up the face of the latter it was prolonged by a cleared path sharply defined among the dense growth of the timber.

He was impressed by the magnitude of the country. On every hand the lifting hills were clothed in trees, close packed and of such girth and height as to seem almost grotesquely impossible. Humanity was dwarfed to insignificance, like an ant crawling on a cathedral column.

Newest Gypsy Boots for Women

—When a new style appears, it is always shown in many different forms. These are more or less experimental to determine which FEW of these many forms will be most universally accepted by women of Fashion, and will be most lasting in popular. So it was with GYPSY BOOTS. Having passed the experimental stage, these newest models just received have proven themselves correct and will be worn all winter. You'll find them splendidly distinctive without being at all obtrusive or too striking.

—THE BLACK KID GYPSY is made of a fine grade dull leather that will give splendid wear. Has leather Louis heel, light welt sole, plain tip toe and is thirteen buttons high.

—THE BRONZE GYPSY is made of the softest of fine bronze kid. Has plain tip toe, leather Louis heel and light welt sole. One of the dressiest shoes we have seen for quite a while.

—THE "MIDNIGHT BLUE" GYPSY is made of very fine soft kid and has white stitching throughout. This model also has plain tip toe, leather Louis heel and light welt sole. Sure to be liked.

The Black Kid Gypsy Boot Sells for $4.00
The Bronze Kid Sells for $5.00
The Midnight Blue Sells for $5.50

Silks Are Going Up Scandalously
But These Black Silks Are Low

—In the face of Japan's notice of a 60 per cent advance in the price of raw silks, and an advance of 25 per cent. in the dyeing, we are able to sell certain fine, fashionable black silks, bought before the rise, for much less than they are worth today.

—Satin Messaline, 36 inches wide, $1.00 a yard.
—Black Satin, 10 inches wide, $1.50 and $2.00 a yard.
—Black Silk and Wool Poplin, 10 in. wide, $1.00 and $1.50 a yard.

ATHENA KNIT UNDERWEAR

Here are the features that give Athena its comfort, its daintiness and its tailored fit.

Sloping Shoulders and Sleeves Conform to the shoulders without wrinkling under arms.
Perfected Shoulder-Stay Keeps garment from stretching across the shoulder, and holds sleeve in place.
Curved Armhole Brings arm seams to the natural curve of the shoulder and holds garment snugly and smoothly up under arm, doing away with unnecessary cloth.
Three-Cornered Gusset Is so shaped as to relieve the usual strain at the thigh. Insures greater comfort and longer wear.
Low-Neck Sleeveless Suit Just as a woman is fuller across the bust than the back, so this garment is made with extra fullness in front.
Patent Seat This consists of a plait on each side of the back, instead of extra cloth in the middle where it causes discomfort. Always stays closed and allows sufficient room, sitting or standing.

Women's Handbags "Made in America"
That Europe Might Well Envy

—"Made in Paris"—"Made in Vienna." Heretofore, the magic of these words has controlled the market for novelties in women's bags. But this year only a few samples have come from foreign centers, and American designers have had their first real opportunity to originate. The results are here—they are wonderful.

—Pin, Long Grain and Seal are the popular leathers this season. Black is the one best color. Most of them are exquisitely lined with brocaded or striped silks and are variously outfitted,—some with purse attached to chains. Quite a collection in Pouch or Melon shapes, which seem to be favorites. Prices range from $1 to $10 with fine values at $1.00 to $1.50.
